SGS

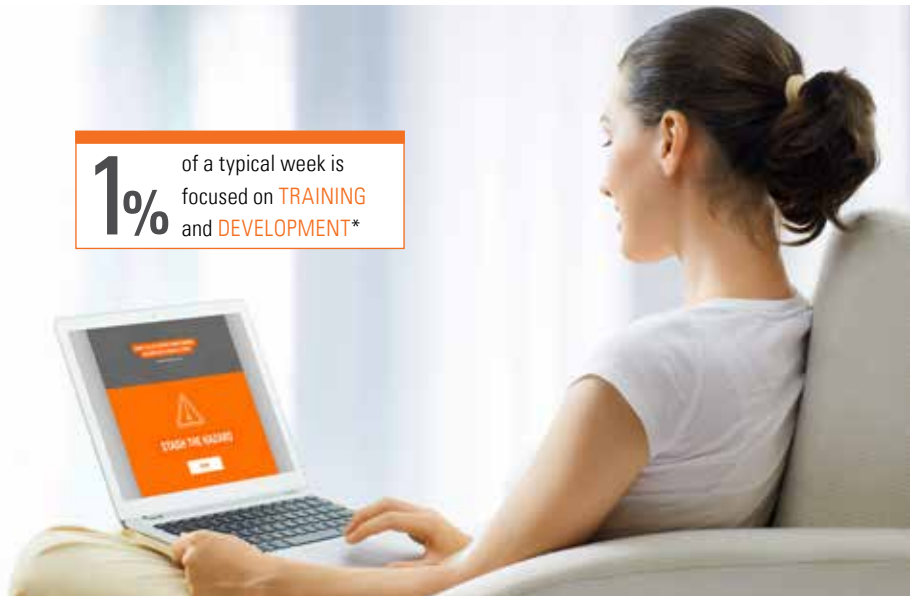

AND SGS WANTS TO SHOW YOU HOW

In a world of fast-changing regulations, rapidly advancing technology and dynamic markets, it is essential to keep your employees up to speed with developments in technology, standards and regulation.

MEET THE MODERN LEARNER

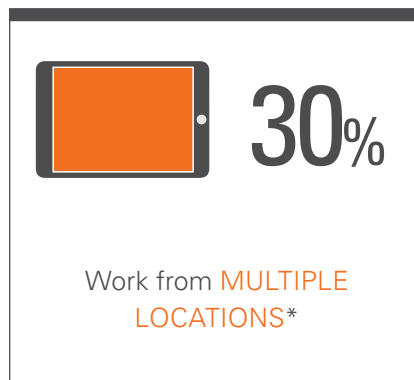

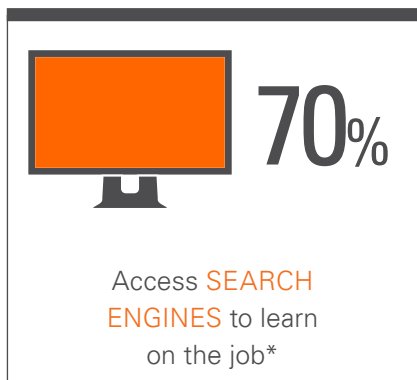

The world of the modern worker has changed rapidly. Today's employee can work from several locations, creating the need to be able to access information – and learning – outside the traditional training and development channels.

Today, 75% of workers report feeling stressed and overwhelmed, with too many demands. These distractions have limited the time spent on training and development to just 1% of a typical work week.

HOW THE MODERN ORGANISATION NEEDS TO RESPOND

The modern workplace needs a different approach to training to ensure they're satisfying the needs of their workforce. Rapid changes in technology, as well as industry standards and regulations, require organisations to offer their workforce greater flexibility in when, and how they learn.
